A friend of ours writes: That she has a pet turtle. The children always watch for it to come out. It made its appearance this spring. The children went out on the lawn and found Mrs Turtle parading with her little ones. It was a very pretty sight to see Mama Turtle and her babies.

In the last verse of the twenty-fifth chapter of Genesis we read of the death of Isaac. And in the twenty-seventh chapter we read of Joseph being sold into Egypt, which had happened about twelve years before. So the Bible, as well as other books, does not tell things exactly in the order they occurred, neither does it teach arithmetic, yet it is by arithmetic that this is ascertained. Isaac died at 180. He was 60 when his sons were born. Jacob was 20 at Isaac's death and 130 when he appeared before Pharaoh. Joseph was 17 when sold into Egypt and 30 when raised to power. As the 7 years of plenty and 2 of the years of famine had passed before Jacob went into Egypt, it follows that Joseph was sold into Egypt about 1' years before the death of Isaac.

Joseph was only a dreamer of dreams; he had no revelations like those given to others; he never heard the voice of God like Adam, but he knew that He was near and he loved Him best of all. The place in which Joseph was sold was the same as that where Elisha struck the Syrian army with blindness. There he was delivered to death and from thence raised to glory. His father loved him and he was sent to his brethren who conspired against him; he was sold for twenty pieces of silver; he was in prison with two malefactors, one was saved and one condemned and many other points of resemblance to Christ.

The commencement exercises of the William E. Case public school were held in the lecture room of the M. E. Church Tuesday evening. A. orchestra, of Trenton, rendered the music.

At a conference Saturday between manager Smith of the Trenton Y. M. C. A. base ball team and representatives of the Morrisville team it was concluded to retain the three dates previously agreed upon for games between the two teams. One of the five games scheduled before the season opened was to have taken place Saturday last but the disbandment and the subsequent re-organization of the Morrisville club prompted Mr. Smith to cancel it.

The Morrisville team will therefore have their next game at Association field on July 23 They will also appear there again August 27 and September 24. This will make four games during the summer. Should a fifth be necessary a date early in October will be selected.

The sun shone bright and fair at Morrisville Ball Park Saturday afternoon. But what did the sun amount to compared to the burst of grin beams from Morrisville rooters that marked the ending of an all-to-the-good occasion.

Oh, yes, we had our anxious moments that made small boys bite their finger nails; bad moments that made old gentlemen beat feverish tattoos with withered fingers on the handles of their umbrellas. But that glorious batting rally in the sixth inning was "all to the skimolia." Had a moment then. Had a moment when the smile we wore was positively pulchritudinous. In that eventful inning Riley used the wooden wiper with unction and effect; he blistered the bulb for a bunt, was safe at first and went to second on a wild throw. Thoughtfully, accurately, thumpfully, Wirth trounced the little leather world for a two bag gouge and Riley gives the glad gum the foot grapple. Mason went to his brave demise, sending out a right punch that Wirth progressed on. Caldwell bammed the bulb to right for a single and Wirth took a train home. Burke then got bumpture and advanced Cauldwell to third with a single. Garman struck out. Boy-aut, the auburn hair Justice, blazed the way for great doings with a two station demand that could not be denied him and allowed Cauldwell and Burke to enter into the elysium of Fanland. We chalked up another digit in the eighth just to make things secure.

Score, us 7, them 3. Score by innings:

Morrisville,	1	0	0	1	0	4	0	1	x	—7
Olney.	0	0	2	0	1	0	0	0	0	—3

A lazy liver may be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. A stick is all right for the back of a lazy man. But it would be a savage as well as a stupid thing to beat a weary man or a starving man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging liver it is a great mistake to lash it with drastic drugs. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred a torpid or sluggish liver is but but a symptom of an ill-nourished body, whose organs are weary with overwork. Let your liver alone. Start with the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in proper working order, and see how quickly your liver will become active and energetic. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

CLASS DAY EXERCISES.

On Friday evening the annual class day exercises of the Newtown High School were held in the hall. The stage was very appropriately decorated with laurel, the class emblem, and bunting, the two shades of green being the class colors. At eight o'clock the six graduates, Elinor M. Duckworth, Albert W. Hogeland, Charles M. Hutchinson, Frank J. Sutton, Elizabeth L. Smith and A. May Wentworth, entered the stage.

The exercises were opened with a piano duet by Charles M. Hutchinson and Albert W. Hogeland, which was followed by the president's address by Charles M. Hutchinson, in which he bade a most cordial welcome to all in a very pleasing manner.

A. May Wentworth next read the class prophecy, in which she imagined herself in an airship in 1912 and all the classmates near her and telling the audience in a very spicy way what each one's occupation was to be at that time.

A vocal solo was then rendered by Frank J. Sutton, which was followed by a recitation by Elizabeth L. Smith. Albert Hogeland and Charles Hutchinson then rendered another instrumental duet, which was followed by the class poem by Elinor Duckworth. Frank J. Sutton next read the last will and testament of the class, after which A May Wentworth rendered a most beautiful piano solo.

The last on the programme and no doubt the cutest were the presentations by Albert Hogeland, in which he easily and gracefully presented each member of the class with gifts in remembrance of something. These brought forth the greatest laughter and applause from the pranks he worked on his classmates. Elizabeth S. Smith presented the presenter with appropriate remarks. The class then sang the class song.

Immediately following the class day exercises the alumni banquet was held and attended by about seventy-five persons, including teachers, directors and alumni.

Toasts were given by Thomas Briggs, representing the directors, Miss Carpenter, the teachers, Miss Lavinia B. Eyre, '97, the alumni, and A. May Wentworth the graduating class.

At the business meeting the following officers were elected: President, Harry K. Eyre, '98; vice-president, J. Aubrey Orowitt, '03; secretary, Helen T. Brown, '02; treasurer, John S. Bryan, '02; executive committee, Elizabeth A. Marshall, '00; R. Anna Eagle, '98, Lillian M. Stout, '02. Ruth Luff, '01, was appointed orator to represent the alumni in 1905.

COMMENCEMENT.

The fifteenth annual commencement was held in the hall on Saturday evening.

On the stage were seated the School Board, Faculty, Dr. Peters and the six graduates.

The exercises were opened with a piano trio by Mrs Horace B. Hogeland, Miss Anna Smith and Eva S. Wentworth. Rev. T. J. Elms next led in prayer, and the high school chorus, led by Mrs. Jones, sang 'Morning Invitation.' An oration, "Patriotism." was then delivered by Charles Hutchinson, and "The American Esau" by Albert W. Hogeland.

The Newtown Octette, composed of Mrs. Ada B. Reeder, Mrs. Fredda H. Bryan, Mrs. Frank J. Linton, Miss Fannie M. Church, William Whalen, Sipron C. Keith, Rev. T. J. Elms and George H. Randall, sang a medley which was heartily encored.

An oration, "Words That Live," was next given by Elizabeth S. Smith, followed by another oration, "The Charge of the Light Brigade," by Frank J. Sutton valedictorian of the class.

Captain William Wynkoop, president of the school board, next presented the diplomas with a few well chosen remarks, after which Miss R. Anna Eagle, '98 gave the welcome from the alumni. Songs were next given by the boys of the high school, "Rowing Glee," and then by the girls, "Lovely River." Dr. Madison C. Peters then gave the address to the graduates in which he gave many very encouraging words.

The exercises were closed with a song, "Gypsy Maiden," by the octette.

Triumphs of Modern Surgery.

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by Emlen Martin, Bristol, wholesale agent for Bucks county.

Thrown From a Wagon.

Mr. George K. Babcock was thrown from his wagon and severely bruised. He applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely and says it is the best liniment he ever used. Mr. Babcock is a well known citizen of North Plain, Conn. There is nothing equal to Pain Balm for sprains and bruises. It will effect a cure in one-third the time required by any treatment. For sale by Emlen Martin, Bristol, whole sale agent for Bucks county.

The jury rteurned a verdict of not guilty without leaving their seats. Several Doylestown people were present at the trial and after the disposition of the case they tendered congratulations to Mrs. Norvell, who is held in high esteem in Doylestown, having had charge of the millinery department at A. S. Hellyer's Sons store for several years. Mrs. Norvell is the widow of the late Major Erastus S. Norvell and was arrested in Doylestown on May 12 by Deputy Marshal Helms. Charles Harris, colored, a member of the famous Arnold gang of burglars, who was sentenced to the Eastern Penitentiary by Judge Yerkes, has been released from that institution. It will be remembered that Charles Arnold, the ringleader, together with three colored accomplices, Lafayette Young, James Williams and Charles Harris, were convicted at the January term of court, 1898, of a seies of robberies at Newportville, Andalusia and Morrisville that startled Bucks county from one end to the other. Detective James Donaghy, of Philadelphia, captured the robbers and they were lodged in the Doylestown jail. Harris was sentenced to sixteen years in the Eastern Penitentiary by Judge Yerkes on three counts. On the first, ten years, on the second, three years, and on the third, three years. In response to an appeal for mercy, accompanied by statements which seemed to warrant a mitigation of punishment, and, which upon careful investigation were found to be true, the Court decided to reduce the sentence from sixteen to ten years. Under the commutation law the sentence would be further reduced to about six and one-half years, thus explaining his release at this time.

The Borough Council has withdrawn its appropriation towards sprinkling the streets owing to a lack of the proper kind of "dust" in the treasury. However, there is no lack of dust in the thoroughfare and if enough patrons can be found it will be "settled" by Pierson M. Candy. The sprinkler started on its crusade against dust on Monday.

Thursday evening about a quarter of nine o'clock Georgie, youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Pierce, met with a serious accident in the store of George Apple. While her older sister was being waited on Georgie raised the knife of the dried beef cutter to see how high she could raise it, but it was so heavy that she could not hold it and it came down on her left arm, cutting it just above the elbow so badly that ten stitches were taken on the inside and eight on the outside, an artery having been cut an the muscle almost cut in half. But for the knowledge how to tie a tourniquet the child would have bled to death before doctor reached her. At this writing, while the arm is paining terribly, still she is doing nicely.

Attleboro had a sad accident on Thursday afternoon when Frederick, oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Max Nechinsky, was drowned in the Neshaminy creek. The child, who was five years old, in company with Howard and Raymond Seth, went fishing and the supposition is that the child lost his balance on the rock he was standing on near Mt. Misery, and fell overboard. If help had been near the child might have been saved as the youngest of the two boys with him tried to hold him up while the other ran to tell someone to come and help. The body had not been long in the water when recovered but all attempts at resuscitation failed to bring life back. The family of the boy are Polanders just lately moved into one of the houses of Rumpf's. The father works in Frederick Rumpf's mill. His fellow workmen, with his employers, raised a purse of $45.35 for him. The little fellow was buried in Beechwood cemetery on Saturday afternoon. This should be a warning to other small boys of the town to stay away from deep water.

An Open Letter.

From the Chapin S. C., News: Early in the spring my wife and I were taken with diarrhoea and so severe were the pains that we called a physician who prescribed for us, but his medicines failed to give any relief. A friend who had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand gave each of us a dose and we at once felt the effects. I procured a bottle and before using the entire contents we were entirely cured. It is a wonderful remedy and should be found in every household. H. C. Bailey, Editor. This remedy is for sale by Emlen Martin, Bristol, wholesale agent for Bucks county.

Sued by His Doctor.

A doctor here has sued me for $12.50, which I claimed was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, Coachella, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not the Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used as I had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say it was not." No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus, it never fails. Sold by Emlen Martin, Bristol, wholesale agent for Bucks county.

There was a thunder shower around us here on Monday evening; also one on Tuesday afternoon, but with the exception of a gust of wind of short duration and a trace of rain, they went by us in another direction.

Joseph S. Thomas, of the Bucks County Gazette, candidate for Assembly of the lower district, took a drive through here one day last week to acquaint himself and ascertain the feeling of the voters. He appears to be a bright, active and ambitious young man and judging from the impression left here he will poll a large vote on next election.

The Children's Day exercises in the chapel on last Sunday evening were performed by all participants in a perfect and satisfactory order and proved a grand success. The decorations were very tastily executed and all who had any flowers willingly distributed to affect a pleasing attire to the eyes of the expected full audience. The edifice was packed to the last seat and some of the late comers had to satisfy themselves with standing room. Rev. Mr. Scarborough, of Trenton, was also present and sang a solo and made an appropriate address to suit the occasion, which was much appreciated. All of the children did exceedingly well in their different roles, the music by our own home talent was splendid, and the music given by the Van Dorens, of Tullytown, was surely a treat. The general expression of the audience was that they enjoyed a splendid evening, long to be remembered.

A Correction.

Editor Gazette:—Being a subscriber to your respected paper allow me to make a correction of an error in your last week's issue. The article written concerning our Christian Endeavor entertainment was to the effect that Mrs. C. Y. Stradling had the management of it. While I would have enjoyed the honor of being engaged in such noble work I wish it to be placed upon the right one. Martie Stradling and not Mrs. C. Y. Stradling, was the one who had it in charge, assisted by the other members of the Society.

PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

THURSDAY, JUNE 23, 1904.

It seems that Kansas can have a destructive spring flood and still cry for labor to harvest one of the biggest crops on record.

The Democratic Brooklyn Eagle admits that it looks like another Republican year. Eyes less piercing than the eagle's can see this.

It seems that the Kansas City Labor unions are talking about abolishing the union label. The Colorado plan is to abolish the union.

The Kentucky newspapers have indignantly branded as a malicious canard the statement that a Kentucky man died from the bite of a rattlesnake.

Missouri has prohibited bull fighting but it is openly boasted that the Democra National Convention will be promptly pulled off in spite of any old state laws.

Mr. Cleveland's ultimatum that his refusal is final comes hot upon the heels of the fact that not a single state has yet elected a delegate for him. A good story of a duck hunt would have been more timely.

After years of acrid excoriations and scathing vituperation Colonel Watterson of the Courier Journal says, simply, that while Cleveland is impossible, yet if he is nominated, he, the Colonel, will support him. To what are Southern Colonels coming?

The Chicago physician who declares that there is no such thing as "brain fag" probably devotes himself to medical literature and has not been reading the distressing Democratic editorial contortions and gymnastics over issues and candidates.

The St. Petersburg report to the effect that there is a secret understanding under which the United States has consented to cede the Philippine Islands to Japan is believed to be founded on fact except so far as relates to Japan, the Philippines and the United States.

The Commoner pictures the Democratic platform as a vigorous tree. Recent Democratic platforms have had just about the dimensions of the Commoner's tree; they cover the entire plane in a great spread but their thickness or diameter is well represented by the sheet of the Commoner containing Mr. Bryan's arboreal reproduction.

The Parker boomers are operating a press bureau almost as effectively as the St. Petersburg article. The country learned that after the Hearst men in Illinois had secured a solid delegation, which was of course what they wanted, they were thoroughly routed by the enemy. The convention denied them everything except what they were after.

Roosevelt and Fairbanks—men of the highest type of character and intellect. Today they will be nominated by the Republican National Convention for President and Vice-President of the United States. The worst that can be said by their enemies is that one is too "hot" and the other is too "cold." In combination they should preserve perfect equilibrium.

The expected Democratic howl arose promptly when Attorney-General Knox resigned and was appointed to the Senate. It was a surrender of the administration to the trusts. It might be just as well to wait a few minutes and see what sort of a successor to Mr. Knox is appointed. It may be recalled that Mr. Knox himself was, prior to the outcome of some of his anti-trust activity, maligned by the Democrats as simply a tool of these business organizations.

There is no agreement among the Democrats as to who will be chairman of the National Committee. Along with the rivalry for the presidential nomination goes the controversy over the selection of the chairman for the campaign. The successful Democratic nominee will have the naming of the national chairman, and this fact will likely enter into the nomination itself. A block of delegates will probably be traded for that important generalship, which further complicates the Democratic situation.

Secretary Root's address at the Republican National Convention on Tuesday was a mass of sound reason, clear statement and unanswerable logic that carries conviction to the minds of the people. Probably never before has there been such an able document read before a similar assemblage, and although of considerable length it behooves every citizen to give it careful reading. As a resume of the Administration it is complete and the wonderful work that has been accomplished is really startling to those who have not kept in close touch with affairs governmental.

In attempting to foist upon the country the Kansas City platform—largely a repitition of the Chicago platform of 1896—Bryan, Hearst, et al, do not appear to be quoting the sayings, epigrams and prophesies which accompanied those documents. If those platforms are as right now as they were at the time of their constructon, then so are the public statements which accompanied them. Recall a few of these: wheat and silver. Wheat could never rise in price above fifty cents until silver was rehabilitated. The same with all farm products. Moreover the hard times of 1896 were stated to be as nothing compared to those which would follow the election of McKinley. We had Mr. Bryan's word for it. In 1900 the tune was changed a little and after much search a paramount issue was found in anti-imperialism. Mr. Bryan and his gang solemnly declared through the length and breadth of the land that the country was on the brink of a ruin worse than the ruin of its industries, worse than the loss of trade—the loss of its liberty, its democracy and its republicanism. The army was to dominate and coerce the citizen: forts would be established at close intervals throughout the United States and armed soldiers would patrol the land.

Demagogy, sophistry, rot!

OBITUARY.

MITCHELL. At his home in Langhorne, Pa., Sixth month, 17th, 1904, Gove Mitchell, in his 80th year, a member of Middletown Monthly Meeting, Pa.

Gove Mitchell was born in Langhorne, Pa., 2d month, 10th, 1825. He was a son of John Allen and Tacy Stackhouse Mitchell, both Elders and life-long members of Middletown Meeting. Descended from a long line of sturdy Quaker ancestors who were closely identified with the earliest history of our country, he naturally was a broad minded man, ever allying himself on the side of right, always a staunch advocate for the highest in life, and in recognition of his integrity and uprightness was called to fill many public positions of trust.

In early life he engaged in agricultural pursuits; later he moved with his family to Philadelphia, where he was engaged extensively in business. After a few years of active business life, he again moved to Langhorne. When the Peoples National Bank of Langhorne was organized, he was asked to become its cashier, which position he accepted and remained its efficient officer until his death.

He was twice married. His first wife was Catharine M. Crossdale, by whom he had two sons—Isaac Stackhouse, who died in early manhood, and Allen R., who is associated in business in Philadelphia; being a manufacturer, and also a member of the firm of J. R. Keim & Co.

His second wife was Anna Crossdale, who survives him. Two sons of this marriage are Horace G., assistant cashier of the Peoples National Bank, of Langhorne, and George Rowland, electrical engineer, of Bradford, Pa.

He was a brother of the late John S. and Pierson Mitchell, both of whom were active members of the Society of Friends.

The life of this prominent Friend, rich in memories of good works and upright living, will carry with it an influence for good which will ever be felt in the community in which he lived. His friends will remember him as a lover of truth and his children will rise up and call him "Blessed."

His funeral took place Third day, 21st inst., from his late residence in Langhorne, Pa.

Behind Jail Bars.

Unless things quiet down in the lower end of the county Fort Smith, or as it is better known, the County Jail, will be overflowing with evil doers and board will have to be found elsewhere for a few of them.

"We've got a swell boarding house now," said Jailer Elmer E. Stout, Friday afternoon. "It seems to be popular. Four more came in this afternoon, making a total of convicts and those waiting trial just sixty. It has been necessary to put two in a cell."

On the state the list was like this: Convicts, females, 2; male, 46. For trial, female, 3; male, 8. Detained for investigation, one. Total, 60.

Four arrived Friday afternoon to await trial. Aaron Brelsford, charged with aggravated assault and resisting an officer and threatening to kill, and Joseph Clark, charged with aggravated assault and battery, were committed by Justice of the Peace B. F. Taylor, of Morrisville.

According to the story the men told a colored man got "flippy," hit one of the men with a stone, and got pretty well pummeled, as punishment, in a free fight that ensued.

Thomas Conway, of Cinnaminson, N. J., and James Taggart, of Burlington, N. J., were the other two men placed under the care of Jailers Stout and Holden. They were committed by Justice of the Peace Fred I. Kraft, of Bristol, for vagrancy and drunken and disorderly conduct.

Some of the men under the care of the jailers now are pretty tough characters and among the lot are said to be several slick criminals, who are not up for the first time, but about the Jail everything seems orderly.

Sheriff Smith and Jailers Stout and Holden deserve credit for the very presentable appearance of the Jail buildings and yard. Everything is as clean as a new pin. The paint is bright, the white washed walls spotless and the cells and other apartments in excellent condition, except the old board floors still slightly spoil the effect. Friday afternoon the bathroom was in demand and the inmates who had gone through the "washor" looked clean and neat and fairly contented.

Outside on the lawn a few of the better behaved prisoners lounged on the grass, while around them were flower beds attractively arranged with blooming plants. The grass was well trimmed and the walks were nicely marked out and filled in.

Keepers and prisoners alike take great pride in the appearance of the lawn and also in the small truck farm. Along both sides of the building, potatoes have been planted and the tops are nearly a foot high, blossoming and in good shape. In the rear is a nice, large bed of onions and plenty of other vegetables. The whole appearance of the place is a credit to the Sheriff and his Jailers, who have made it a model institution.—Doylestown Intelligencer.

Surprised an Officer.

Something of importance seemed to be doing at Bristol Division No. 107 Sons of Temperance at the meeting last Friday evening to bring so large a percentage of the membership out.

An inkling of what was on the programme had leaked out, which attracted members from Langhorne and Hulmeville to Bristol. One new member was admitted during the evening.

After business was over and a few entertaining selections had been rendered, Grand Treasurer Charles Hancock, of William Penn Division, who is Deputy of No 107, was called on for a few remarks. Brother Hancock referred to one member in particular who had been looked upon as a leader of this Division for a number of years, in fact since it was instituted; being a charter member, the present Recording Scribe, and having served his Division in various offices for a period of over twenty-one years. In behalf of the members of Bristol Division, Brother Hancock presented Past Grand Worthy Associate George J. Sheppard with a handsome Blue Regalia, the color of the National Division. Brother Sheppard being a P. G. W. A. entitles him to a seat in the National Division, Sons of Temperance of North America, which session he attended last summer at New Haven, Conn.

The 60th Annual Session of the National Division will be held in Philadelphia, commencing June 22nd. Not since 1876 has the National Session been held in the City of Pennsylvania. On Friday afternoon and evening the members of the National Division and their ladies will be entertained at Willow Grove Park by the Grand Division of Pennsylvania.

MUNYON SAYS PAW PAW

Prolongs Life by Feeding the Nerves

DIGESTS EVERYTHING

It Touches, Makes Good, Rich Blood, Cures Sleeplessness and All Nervous Ailments

There is no class of sufferers whom I pity more than those suffering from nervousness. They get very little pity; the public cannot understand them. Their friends weary of them and they seem to have no companionship but their own gloomy thoughts. While others sleep they toss and turn, worry and fret, imagine all sorts of impossible things, magnify their ills and anticipate great losses and troubles. As a rule it will be found that nervous people suffer with some form of indigestion; that they have been overworked or overstrained or are suffering from some great mental worry. One of the best tonics is friendship and sympathy. Every well person should give these sufferers not only encouragement, but their heartfelt sympathy.

My Paw Paw remedy acts directly on the nerve centers. This remedy is really a food as well as a stimulant to the nerves. It relieves the tension, quiets and soothes the nerves. I believe it to be the greatest nerve tonic and strength builder ever placed on the market. It is made from the Paw Paw fruit, which grows in India and South America.

It will make a new stomach for anybody and enable them to eat all they like, when they like and what they like. This new vegetable pepsin is far superior to animal pepsin in aiding digestion and the upbuilding of the nervous system. It is put up in large bottles. A tablespoonful three times a day or whenever needed will give tone and strength to the weak and debilitated and will give hope to nerve shattered and nerve depressed persons. If you are nervous, if you cannot concentrate your mind, if you are irritable, if you cannot sleep, ask your druggist for Munyon's Paw Paw. Take it faithfully and I believe you will be pleased to write and thank me for giving you this advice. At all druggists. Price $1 (large bottle). Paw Paw Laxative Pills, 25c. a bottle.

If You Can't Sleep

You won't last long. Sleeplessness always accompanies nervous prostration, headache, backache, melancholy, dizziness, etc., and is a danger signal of badly deranged nerves. It is a most serious symptom.

Dr. Miles' Nervine—

The fine weather that has prevailed for the past week or ten days has made trolley riding a favorite form of recreation. On Sundays especially the cars of the Philadelphia, Bristol and Trenton Street Railway Company have been crowded. The extension of this company's tracks in Morrisville to a point close to the tracks of the Trenton and Yardley lines has made traveling to those points convenient, and a great many people have taken advantage of the opportunity afforded them. A favorite route is to take the car at the Closson House corner and go to Newtown, then transfer to the Yardley and Trenton car, making a choice of crossing the Calhoun street bridge to the Jersey Capital or continue on to Morrisville, thence to Bristol, to the starting point. Many prefer to take in Trenton on the trip. The ride to Torresdale is another attractive one, that line doing the heaviest business of any of the roads entering Bristol.

An Ode to the Clock.

The fair editor of the Bristol Banner, whose home is 'neath the shadow of Bristol's time-honored clock tower, has had her morning slumbers disturbed and her siestas rudely interfered with by the irrelevant strokes of the town clock. Its rag-time indications are such that one cannot realy tell whether it is the hour for morning prayer or vesper service, therefore this touching ode:

The Bristol town clock is still hard at work, in its efforts to straighten up its interior, regardless of time, place or circumstances! It can go straight now, a whole day at a time! We watch it with interest and since it has come around to striking only seven or twelve, where it has been giving us a measley little two stroke, for the noon hour, we are proud of it! Keep right on, old clock, by next Christmas your striking apparatus may even up and we may yet catch a train by your guiding hands. You poor old, long suffering antique! We ache for you, when we hear your slow and halting strokes, as you reluctantly give out the hours, and we ache a good deal harder for ourselves when you strike 5 A. M and we take another nap, oblivious to the fact, that you really meant 7. Some cool day we mean to get permission to make an upward trip to your time-honored works! We hear that they are full of sand, and that the dust of ages rests heavily upon you! Your Father Bristol, should sweep out your dirt, and give you a proper enclosure! For two months you may strike 14 the dozen and we shan't be here to chide. Farewell!

A Wedding on Otter Street.

Under a bower of cut flowers and the room profusely banked with potted plants a very pretty June wedding took place at the home of John S. Williams, Jr., 535 Otter street, Bristol, Wednesday evening, June 15th, when Miss Clara Florence Williams, daughter of John S. Williams, Jr, was married to Helisues Blundin, of Oxford Valley, by the Rev. Thomas J. Mac Kay, pastor of the Baptist Church, Bristol, at eight o'clock, sharp. While the wedding march was being played by Mrs. Katie Williams, sister-in-law of the bride, the bride and groom entered the room. She carried a large bouquet of Bride roses The bride was dressed in white silk trimmed very prettily with lace. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Kessler and the best man was George Williams, brother of the bride.

After the wedding a bountiful repast was served. A large number of relatives and friends were present, some of whom were: Mr. and Mrs. John S. Williams, Jr., William Woodard and family, George Williams and family, Miss Rachel Blundin, Misses Mary, Susie and Fannie Williams, Raymond Tomlinson, Elwood Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schmidt, Samuel Williams.

The bride received a large number of costly presents. The newly-wedded couple left at 9 p. m. for an extended trip. When they return they will reside in Morrisville.

Borough Sues Trolley Company.

The Borough Council of Attleboro has brought suit against the Newtown, Langhorne and Bristol Street Railway Company to collect the sum of $37 due for pole licenses as required by ordinance. The case was heard in 'Squire Kraft's office at Bristol, last Saturday. The borough was represented by John C. Stuckert, Esq. A decision was given in favor of the plaintiff. Notice of appeal was given by the trolley company's attorney. The borough ordinance permits a license fee of one dollar for each pole to be charged.

L. A. HOGUET DEAD.

Louis A. Hoguet, the pioneer druggist of Bristol, died this morning at about five o'clock. He was found dead in bed by a member of the family. Although Mr. Hoguet had been a great sufferer for some years from an aggravated form of eczema, death was caused by a general breaking down in health.

The deceased was 82 years old, and had been in the drug business in Bristol for forty years. He was born in Philadelphia in 1822 and came to Bristol in 1844, opening a drug store at the stand next to Snively's tailoring establishment on Mill street. He remained there about two years and moved to the corner now occupied by William S. Silbert. In 1867 he moved to his present location.

Mr. Hoguet was one of Bristol's most respected citizens, a man of sterling integrity and was held in universal esteem.

He is survived by a widow, three daughters and a son.

In 'Squire Kraft's Court.

Upon information of Alexander Chambers, superintendent of the Newtown and Langhorne Street Railway Company, Thomas Holden, of Bristol township, was arrested by Officer Musnuff on Saturday. Holden was charged with disorderly conduct on the trolley cars. He paid $2.50 fine and costs.

Roger Ferry was arrested Friday night by Officers Wilkinson and Bloodgood who found the man in a helpless drunken condition. He was locked up and in the morning paid the costs to 'Squire Kraft and was discharged. On Saturday night Ferry was again arrested by Officer Tice for being drunk and was again locked up. His case was continued until Saturday until he could get sufficient funds to pay for the privilege of going about the streets in an intoxicated condition.

Thomas McConomy while on a spree was gathered in by Officer Tice on Saturday. The hearing was continued a week until Thomas could get some coin to pay the fine and costs

James Tygert, of Burlington, N. J., and Thomas Conway, of Cinnaminson, N. J., umbrella menders, were arrested by Officers Tice and Wilkinson on Friday for vagrancy. In default of $200 bail each they were sent to jail to await the next term of criminal court.

Death of Unknown Man.

A man in an unconscious condition was found at the upper end of Bath street at an early hour on Friday morning by R. B. King, the milkman. He was well dressed, and apparantly about 60 years of age. He was taken to the station house where he remained until four o'clock in the afternoon pending an investigation. Dr. E. J. Groom was summoned and the physician was not long in determining that the fellow had been on a drunken spree, and he was kept at the station house with the idea that eventually he would sober up. As the man failed to regain consciousness he was sent to the Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia, where it was pronounced that apoplexy, caused by alcoholism, had occurred. He died at midnight on Friday at the hospital.

It was learned that the man was first seen reclining against a trolley pole near the cemetery on Thursday night. William H. Murphy, confidential clerk at the trolley company's office, who served in the Philippine war in the hospital service, happened to be on the car. He had the car stopped and the fellow put aboard and carried into Bristol. Then the man appeared to be but drunk and had a bottle of whiskey in his possession. An attempt was made to take him to the Closson House stable, where he could rest and sober up, but the stranger persisted in leaving the place and at midnight wandered out Bath street. That was the last seen of him until found by Mr. King along the road near the Mill Pond the next morning. There was a rumor that the fellow had been beaten and robbed by foot-pads, but there has been no evidence to that effect. It was a pure case of rum.

Coming to Hotel Closson for 15 days.

Dr. P. H. Brown, Philadelphia's leading foot specialist, will visit Bristol for 15 days, commencing Monday, June 27, at 9 a. m. Dr. Brown is very highly recommended by several of Bristol's popular citizens, both ladies and gentlemen, whose feet he has very skillfully treated during his former visits here. Mr. F. P. F. Randolph, Mechanics National Bank, Burlington, Mrs. E. Horner, 810 Union street, Mrs. B. Wagner, High street, Mrs. S. Fenimore, 134 Federal street, Mrs. A. E. Goodher, 208 York street, Burlington; Miss Alice Hussey, 338 Dorrance street, Bristol; Mrs. F. Randall, 527 Linden street, Bristol; Mrs. William L. Elliot, Mill street, Bristol, and scores of others here in Bristol say Dr. Brown has perfectly and permanently cured their corns, bunions, ingrowing toe nails, enlarged great toe joints, callosities on soles of feet, soft, tender, sweating, aching, tired feet by his painless and bloodless antiseptic method. Instantly after treatment new and close fitting shoes or boots can be worn with ease and comfort. A short visit to this expert specialist will save you years of misery and suffering, for when the feet ache we ache all over. An experienced lady chiropodist for ladies. Hours, 8 to 8 p. m. Sundays 10 to 4 p. m. Advice and consultation feet. Very moderate charges.

The Irish exhibit at the World's Fair includes laces valued at $2,500,000.

The Library Entertainment.

The minstrel entertainment given on Tuesday evening at the Colonial Theatre for the benefit of the Bristol Library was a great success—financially at least. From an artistic standpoint it is believed that some of the performers did not do themselves justice, especially in the solo parts. There was an apparent timidity, when it came time to appear before the big audience and some of the songs were sung in such a low tone that they could scarcely be heard at the rear end of the theatre.

The following songs were sung in the first part: "Anchored," by Harry Wilkinson; "Good Bye Eliza Jane," Harry Sheppard; "If I Only Had a Dollar of My Own," Charles Blondell; "How Adam Fell," James Guy; "The Songs I Heard in Heaven," Frank Horn; "The Gripman's Grip," Walter Hall; "You are as Welcome as the Flowers in May," H. P. Case; "I'm Tired, So Very Tired," Horace G. Young; "The Love of a Poor but Honest Girl," C. H. Bunting.

Interspersed between the songs were a number of jokes of a local nature.

Harry Sheppard gave a clever exhibition of club swinging in the second part, and the Southern plantation scene by the entire company would have been very effective if there had not been a proneness to lag

Watler Hall, as a magician, gave a laughable exhibition of burlesque tricks.

The hit of the evening was the laughable farce entitled "Miss Esther Lawrence's Night School." Harry Sheppard took the part of "Miss Essie."

Miss Martha Trudgen acted as accompanist. Compton's orchestra furnished music between the acts.

Editor Gazette:—Without aiming to give a detailed report of the entertainment on Tuesday evening, let me say that it was highly successful. Our sable friends, the merry minstrels, covered themselves with glory. Their quips and cranks, their innocent jokes and pointed allusions to many of our prominent citizens occasionally illustrative of personal peculiarities, were thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. The music was delightful, adding to the variety its dainty charms. Praise of one feature or another fell from every lip The more grotesque and laughable parts, the funny things for the sake of the fun, had the immediate effect of stirring to its depths the fountains of merriment. It looked as though some people would hurt themselves with an excess of excited emotions. The night school fairly tumbled over itself in its exuberant exhibition of oddities From beginning to end the entertainment was a striking and unique affair, and it will long linger in the memory among pleasant and risible recollections. Not least among the many things worthy of notice was the splendid audience that filled the theatre, assuring to the projectors of the diversion the reward of a fine financial result.

Although Miss Esther Lawrence was the object of a full share of harmless notice in the laughable and grotesque medley, let it here be recorded that to her energy, which never stagnates, is largely due the inception of the enterprise, as well as many of the essential details that contributed to its success. **

MARRIED MEN DEFEATED.

On Sunday last, the Single Men defeated the Married Men, of No. 2 Fire Co., of Bristol, by the score of 29 to 13. The game was replete with brilliant plays, poor plays and kicking. Every player seemed to think the umpire had a grudge against him. Arthur Wright had the Married Men completely at his mercy and had he not been taken out of the box the Married Men would not have scored half the runs they did. The features of the game were a one-handed catch by Strouse out in right field which resulted in a double play and the catching of Roth. Score by innings:

Single men,	0 7 3 8 0 4 0 1 6—29
Married men,	1 3 0 0 1 2 2 2 2—13

BLOOMSDALE 3, SOMERTON 2.

Bloomsdale and Somerton played a very interesting game on the Bloomsdale grounds last Saturday. The batting was good and the fielding at times quite brilliant. Somerton engaged in some very useless and senseless kicking at Umpire Coleman's decisions, which are always fair and impartial. The score by innings:

Bloomsdale,	1 0 0 1 0 1 0 0 x—3

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

THE Japanese charge at Nanshan hill, in the assault on the outposts of Port Arthur, will go down to history as one of the bravest and bloodiest charges in the annals of warfare, and among its many heroes was a prince, Lieutenant General Count Fushimi. In the earlier rushes of the attack every man in the Japanese lines was shot down before he reached the Russian intrenchments. But this did not deter other Japanese soldiers from rushing forward at the word of command to be shot down in the places of their dead comrades. At last by the help of artillery fire from the rear and the dash of one particularly bold detachment of Japanese troops, the Russian line was broken and the soldiers of the czar driven from the intrenchments.

PRINCE FUSHIMI

This now historic charge on Nanshan hill had been determined upon after twelve hours of desperate fighting had failed to dislodge the Russians, but had almost exhausted the Japanese ammunition. Then the Japanese officers addressed their men and urged them to take the position at all costs. The army making this assault was under command of General Oku. The first division was commanded by Lieutenant General Prince Fushimi. This division at the word of command immediately advanced on Nanshan hill, and with heroic dash jumped over the entanglements, rushing the enemy's guns and clambering over the lower trenches in the very face of the terrific Russian fire, which inflicted enormous losses. Other divisions joined in, and the splendid rush carried the hill.

Lieutenant General Prince Sadanaru Fushimi is one of the younger officers now in the field. His courageous conduct as commander of the first division of General Oku's army in the assault on Nanshan hill will doubtless entitle him to promotion.

If Professor Russell H. Chittenden's theory that we eat too much could be conclusively demonstrated it would mean a great cutting down of meat and grocery bills. The experiments he has conducted on soldiers of the United States army at the Sheffield Scientific school of Yale university have excited much interest, and the general outcome of the experiments has been regarded as a success. Nevertheless it will probably take some time to convince the general public that food should be taken in homeopathic doses and that 11 cents per day is all a well person should spend on his meals.

PROFESSOR CHITTENDEN

Professor Chittenden stands high as a scientist. He graduated from the Sheffield Scientific school in 1875. He has studied abroad, has been president of the American Physiological society since 1895 and is a member of the National Academy of Sciences. He is now forty-six years of age.

A very busy young woman is Miss Alice Roosevelt, the president's daughter. She is in great demand socially and is constantly on the go. She recently visited St. Louis and naturally received many attentions during her stay in the world's fair city. Miss Roosevelt had been in St. Louis but two hours when she started with a small party for some fun on the Pike, where she enjoyed herself to her heart's content without the annoyance of being watched by a crowd for very few knew that the president's daughter was on the fair grounds. Later numerous formal functions were given in her honor. She witnessed a polo game at the St. Louis Country club attended a reception given for her by Mrs. Daniel Manning, president of the exposition board of lady managers, went to a select ball that evening given by Dr. Theodore Lewald, the German commissioner, as a compliment to her, and next day attended the reception which M. Legrave, the French commissioner, tendered her. Enjoyable in their way as these functions no doubt were, it appeared that Miss Roosevelt had the best time when she was the guest of the dog eating head hunters from the Philippines, who performed their weird dances for her amusement. She was much amused when a wizard on the Pike told her that she was soon to be married to a blond multimillionaire. That she had lost her heart to some one was plainly indicated when a German professor in the Education building was unable to locate it with the use of an X ray machine. The accompanying picture of Miss Roosevelt is from a photograph taken on the world's fair grounds.

ALICE ROOSEVELT.

Captain William W. Clark of Hook and Ladder company No. 2, New York fire department, is not only brave but resourceful in emergencies. Had it not been for this fact he would not now be at the head of the list of heroes who are to receive rewards from the fund provided by Andrew Carnegie. Captain Clark has rescued lives from peril on several occasions, but his last act of bravery, which won him the honor of being the first recipient of a Carnegie hero medal, was performed in connection with the rescue of an insane patient at the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital building, New York, on April 24, 1904. The building had taken fire, and this patient, Robert Hyndman, climbed to the roof, where police, attendants and firemen were at first unable to get hold of him. With a pitcher in his hand he stood on a fifth story window sill and threatened the lives of the brave men of the fire department who sought to rescue him from his perilous position. At great risk of his own life, Clark stole behind him and seized him in his embrace. There was a fierce struggle during which the plucky fireman's right arm and shoulder were badly wrenched, but the insane man was overpowered and rescued. This is only one of many brave acts performed by the officer whom the board in charge of the Carnegie fund has decided to honor.

Major John McGaw Woodbury, who has made such an excellent record as street cleaning commissioner of New York city, is a man who exacts strict obedience from the members of his force. Political influence does not move him if there has been an infraction of discipline. Not long ago an alderman appealed to him to reinstate a driver whose record had been bad. After looking up the facts the commissioner said: "Sorry, Mr. Alderman, but this man has been dismissed twice for intoxication. We can't have him in this department." "Well," pleaded the alderman, "can't you give him just one more chance? He has a large family that is likely to be dispossessed, and there is nothing to eat at home. Can't you do something for him?"

J. M. WOODBURY

"I'll get him employment somewhere else if I can," said the commissioner. "I'll speak to some of my business friend. I'm sorry for his family, but he can't work with us."

Major Woodbury kept his promise. He obtained the man employment elsewhere and his kindness was appreciated for the discharged driver has been doing good work in his new place.

Major Woodbury is worth several millions of dollars, but he works for the city of New York for a salary of $7,500 a year, and nobody doubts that he earns his salary.

M. Emile Combes, the French prime minister, whose vigorous enforcement of anticlerical measures has occasioned much coolness between the Vatican and the French government, is in many ways a remarkable character. His activity in the suppression of religious orders and his position as head of the most anticlerical cabinet the French republic has had have naturally brought him into disfavor with a large portion of the French people. Singularly enough, M. Combes was formerly an ecclesiastic himself and as the Abbe Combes figured for several years as one of the professors of the College of the Assumption of Nimes. Later he became a physician and has given his life to the study of science and education. He was for seventeen years a member of the French senate and in 1895 was made minister of education. He is an exceedingly hard worker and even at sixty seven years of age is said to devote about nine hours out of the twenty-four to labor.

PREMIER COMBES

Frans Hals' Visitor

A story is told of a visit paid to Frans Hals, the famous old Dutch painter, by Vandyke. The latter was then twenty two, Hals fifteen years his senior. As a pleasantry Vandyke suppressed his name announcing himself as a wealthy stranger who wished to sit for his portrait, but who had only a couple of hours to spare. Hals fell to with his usual impetuosity and completed a portrait for the sitter's inspection in even less than the limited time much to the satisfaction of the latter, who expressed an astonishment not altogether feigned at the speed of its execution.

"Stuels," said he, "painting is an easier thing than I thought. Suppose we change places and see what I can do." The exchange was made. Hals instantly detected that the person before him was no stranger to the brush. He speculated in vain as to who he might be. But when the second portrait was finished in still less time than the first the mystery was solved. Rushing to his guest, he clasped him in a fraternal embrace. "The man who can do that," he cried, "must be either Vandyke or the devil!"

THE WONDERFUL SUN.

Some of the Things We Know About That Mysterious Star.

A very wonderful and in some respects mysterious object is the sun, a typical star, the nearest one, and not so far away as to prevent us from studying it in detail, and yet presenting conditions so different from those we can obtain in our laboratories that to a considerable extent it defies our reasonings and renders our conclusions merely conjectural.

Certain facts, however, have been established beyond any possible doubt and must necessarily form the foundation of all reasonable theories and opinions.

We know, for instance, that its mean distance from the earth is very closely 93,000,000 miles, that its diameter is about 866,500 miles, or 109½ times that of the earth, and its bulk about 1,300,000 as great.

We know also that its mass is about 330,000 that of the earth and that consequently gravity upon its surface is about 27½ times as powerful as here. A man who here weighs 150 pounds would weigh more than two tons upon the sun, and there a squirrel would not be able to jump any more briskly than an elephant here.

Experiments with burning glasses make it certain that the effective temperature of the sun's surface taken as a whole (doubtless the actual temperature varies widely at different points) is much above any which we can produce by artificial means. Not even the electric furnace can rival it. Carried to the sun and kept there for a few hours only, the earth would melt and pass into vapor. The estimated temperature is about 12,000 degrees F., but cannot be regarded as exact.—Professor Charles A. Young in Harper's Weekly.

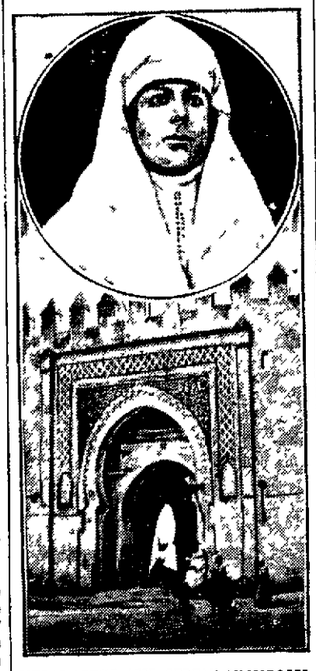
A STRANGE MONARCH

PERSONALITY OF THE SULTAN OF MOROCCO.

Abdul Aziz Is a Queer Mixture of Cleverness and Ignorance, of Child and Man—Would Like to Rule Better, but Traditions Prevent.

In the early years of the nineteenth century the United States was called on to protect its citizens against the violence of north African pirates. The occasion for vigilance in behalf of the rights of Americans in that quarter of the world has not disappeared, and the bandits who have such free rein in the territory of the sultan of Morocco are as daring and impudent as the pirates of yore. The situation arising out of the capture of the American, Ion Perdicaris, and his stepson Varley, by the brigand chief Raisuli has been giving the authorities at Washington no little concern. A chief factor in the problem, of course, is the sultan of Morocco himself, who has permitted brigandage to flourish.

Mulai Abdul Aziz, the reigning monarch of Morocco, though nominally an absolute ruler, is very much handicapped in the discharge of his imperial functions. He is surrounded by the influences of his court, which are hostile to progress and the introduction of modern ideas. He is compelled to consult the prejudices of his subjects, who are hostile to foreigners and who regard brigandage as an institution inherited from the good old times which ought to be treated with a certain degree of toleration. It is a common thing for bandits to rob and perhaps murder the mail carriers of his sheereefian majesty, and such incidents do not appear to occasion any energetic protest on the part of the government. A visitor in Morocco not long since had the novel experience of obtaining a snapshot of a company of bandits just as they were killing a man. It was a good illustration of the tolerance accorded such outrages.



MULAI ABDUL AZIZ, SULTAN OF MOROCCO, AND THE ENTRANCE TO HIS PALACE

The sultan came to the throne ten years ago. It is said that he was not the rightful heir, but was placed on the throne through the influence of a powerful member of the court, who continues to be in some sense the power behind the throne. The sultan is now about twenty five years of age and is a young man of good intentions as a ruler, but comparatively limited powers. The sultan has a large number of palaces and he varies the monotony of imperial life by journeying from one to another. His sacred person is usually concealed from the gaze of his humble subjects, but if he takes a liking to a foreigner he admits him to terms of intimacy and disregards the ceremonious rules that are ordinarily observed in his presence. He likes to play billiards has purchased bicycles and automobiles for his amusement and is interested in scientific inventions. He would like to introduce European and American ideas in Morocco and increase the trade of the kingdom with other countries, but his conservative subjects strongly object.

The sultan likes excitement, and ordinary amusements pall on him. Once when some foreigners were visiting him and admiring his private zoo he suggested that releasing a herd of wild boars and having a fight with them might relieve the monotony. Accordingly, much to the dismay of the visitors, ponies and spears were sent for, and the boars were let loose. In a short time the place looked like a half dozen Spanish bullfights rolled into one. It was only the skill and pluck of the sultan himself that saved the more timid of the visitors from being gored to death by the infuriated boars.

One of the modern inventions that have interested the sultan is the moving picture machine. Exhibitions have been given for his amusement with this invention which greatly delighted him. The pageants and exciting events in the faraway world which these pictures portray have been viewed with absorbing interest and have aroused in the monarch a strong desire to leave his kingdom and see for himself the world of civilization, which is to him, despite his imperial power, a forbidden as well as undiscovered country. He could not gratify his desires and go on a foreign tour without incurring great risk of losing his throne.

Spots on the Fur of Animals.

Although we are told that the leopard cannot change his spots, it is certain that the markings on the fur of some animals do change. Especially is this true where the animal has a distinctive winter coat. This change has been studied by Barrett Hamilton, a British naturalist, who is of opinion that whitening of the fur generally accompanies development of fatty tissue, which is manifestation of insufficient oxidation and hence of atrophy, which shows itself in a whitening of the hair. In some animals—man for instance—this atrophy is manifested by baldness. That fat men are often bald is thus something more than a coincidence.—Success.

A Substitute For Latin.

In an English school recently a certain boy was regularly absent during the hour in which Latin was taught. The teacher called upon the boy's father, at whose instructions it had been learned he remained away, and asked for an explanation. The father said: "It is all right. During the Latin hour I am teaching Jimmy something that he will find far more useful than Latin in his progress through life." The teacher was interested and asked what this subject might be. The father replied, "I am teaching my son how to shave without a looking glass."

Ate Their Gods.

The gods of most South American tribes of Indians are generally looked upon as sacred, but when the gods become a nuisance it is time to put an end to them; at least, that is what a certain tribe along the Zabari river think. They worship the iguana and monkey, but as soon as the iguana started eating chickens they thought it time to stop worshiping him and to eat him in place of the chickens he had eaten. This they do, and they prefer iguana stew to chicken fricassee.

The Elect of Boston.

I can remember when it was jocosely said of some families of Massachusetts that they claimed to have had, in the time of Noah's deluge, a boat to themselves, and I can recall, on the other hand, when a social aspirant in Boston asked, "Who belong to the really old families, grandmamma?" and when that relative shook her weary head and said, "Mostly no one, my dear."—Thomas Wentworth Higginson in Atlantic.

PETER OF SERVIA.

His Coronation Day at Hand—Echoes of Belgrade's Tragedy.

King Peter I of Servia, the date of whose coronation at Kosiorova is June 15, is a decidedly pathetic figure, for the cares of his kingly office weigh hard upon his slight frame. In his walks about the grounds of the new palace his eyes often wander toward the window in the old Konak through which the bodies of the murdered King Alexander and Queen Draga were cast forth. The first anniversary of what is called "the bloody night" is approaching, and in the talk of the people about the plans for the crowning of the king doubt is expressed that it will ever take place. The peasants as they drive their herds to market through the steep streets of the old fortress town shake their heads and say: "The last of the Black Georges will never be crowned. See, they cannot even keep the window shut."

Day and night one window in the palace is open while all the other windows are shut. That is the window connected with the act of the regicides. The king is a little mite of a man, with a sad face. He can hardly be five feet two inches in height or weigh a hundred pounds. On walks he wears the red coat of a Servian general and the astrakhan "kalpak" of his guard. His hand is ever twitching at his scanty mustache, and he eyes those he meets with an interest and a curiosity which make him seem to be asking, "Do you believe that I planned the murders of the bloody night?"

KING PETER OF SERVIA

The king is very democratic in his manner and often walks on the streets alone, so that pedestrians may touch elbows with him and not know that he is a monarch. The court functions lack the ceremoniousness of King Alexander's time. The king receives one and all alike—generals, ministers or swineherds—and he seems working hard to blot out the remembrance that there is a bloody trail to his throne.

The Love of Eating.

IS THE AMERICAN BECOMING A GOURMAND?

In our largest centers of population, such as New York and Chicago, we daily see more attention given to the inner man. Cafes and lunch rooms are filled with men and women who seem to give all their time and attention to thoughts of properly or improperly feeding their stomachs. "It is of course best to eat slowly, but not too much," says Dr. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. "In this 20th century people devote so much time to head work that their brain is fagged and there isn't sufficient blood left to properly take care of the other organs of the body. The stomach must be assisted in its hard work—the liver started into action—by the use of a good stomach tonic, which should be entirely of vegetable ingredients and without alcohol. After years of experience in an active practice, Dr. Pierce discovered a remedy that suited these conditions in a blood-maker and tissue-builder. He called it Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—an alterative extract that assists in the digestion and assimilation of the food in the stomach—so that the blood gets what it needs for food and gradation, the liver is at the same time started into activity and there is perfect elimination of waste matter. When the blood is pure and rich, all the organs work without effort, and the body is like a perfect machine.

FREE! Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
